SUSTAINABLE WINERY

The numbers may place it among the largest Marche wineries in terms of acreage and bottles produced, but Umani Ronchi is still a family business at heart. For several years Michele Bernetti has run the estate set up by his father Massimo and uncle Stefano, developing new projects that aim for quality. These include conversion to organic farming for most of the vineyards, found around Castelli di Jesi, Conero, and in Abruzzo. Casal di Serra is the estate's first certified organic wine. The Campo San Giorgio Riserva 2011 shows what is achievable in elegance and minerality for Montepulciano del Conero. A marvel of polished expressiveness. Its younger brother, Cùmaro 2012 is bright and fruity, with firm acidity interwoven with smooth tannins. Plenio 2013 is graceful and dynamic, with generous varietal features and palate powered by extraordinary energy. Maximo 2013 is a botrytized Sauvignon: alluring, plush, and very lingering.
